Backend Functionality

Price per customer extension will allow a set of customer-specific prices for the same product. The multiple ways shown below to set special prices, one is to select customers from edit products and another is to select products from edit customers.

1. Set Price Per Customer From Manage Product

From		From			From	From
To		To			To	To
	All Websites USD	1	Veronica Costello	roni_cost@example.com	15	1 and above	2024-02-29	Remove Customer

On product edit, you would see one new tab titled "Price Per Customer". This tab will allow you to choose customers to whom you are required to give discounted prices. You can define product quantity and price of product per quantity.

- Special Price:: If assigning a discount with a single quantity of product only to a particular customer, it would be considered as a special price of product to respective customer. For example, as shown below screenshot customer Veronica Costello has been given a special price of $20 on the product Crown Summit Backpack. But the actual price of the product is $38.

Discount on all products (%) 5.0000

Price per customer can also be managed by edit customers. While you edit any particular customer, you will see one tab called “Price Per Customer”. With this tab, the admin can select various products and set special prices or tier prices for products.

As we have discussed with the manage product tab, we can manage Special Prices, Tier Prices, fixed prices, Discounts in percentage, Bundle products, and group products with each product here too.

Discount on all products: From here you can give a fixed percentage of discount on all products. If you set this option for any customer, the Customer will get a particular amount of discount throughout the site for all products. This discount would not be applicable for those products if the price per customer is set on products.

Tier pricing enables merchants to provide discounts depending on the number of products purchased. For instance, consider the Beaumont Summit Kit: while the regular price for a single item is $42, a special price of $39.90 is offered. If a customer purchases 2 units of the same product, the special price reduces to $38 per item. Similarly, if 3 units are purchased, the special price further decreases to $36 per item. This encourages customers to buy in larger quantities, offering them savings as they purchase more.
